

SPARKS’ PERSPECTIVE

Ron Sparks Commissioner

Sometimes it can be hard to imagine that there are people around the world that could care about agriculture as much as we do here in Alabama. Last month, I attended the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture (SASDA) conference in Florida. The organization represents fourteen Southern states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. We had a great conference and were able to discuss many important issues.

Traveling for work can be hard and time-consuming, but traveling not only makes the world seem like a smaller place, it can bring people together. It also reminds me that all of us who work at Departments of Agriculture share a common interest: promoting our own state's agriculture and agricultural products. Each of us cares about finding more resources to help our farmers and producers through legal and financial means. Collectively, we can also help each other learn, grow, and improve upon what we already have and know.

Some of the important issues we discussed were the 2007 Farm Bill, agricultural investigations and homeland security, trade, animal health, and food safety. Guest speakers at the conference included USDA Secretary Mike Johanns and Undersecretary Bill Hawks.

Besides meeting about important issues, the SASDA conference was also a chance to see familiar faces and strengthen the friendships Alabama has created with other states in the Southern region. The organization provides a venue for us to help each other. Over the last several years, the Southern spirit of hospitality and reciprocity has been shown over and over.

At the June meeting, I was chosen to serve as President of SASDA and one of the responsibilities will be to host the annual conference in Alabama in 2006. I hope you will join me in showing support for our local folks as we prepare to make our neighbors feel welcome. I think that this will be a great opportunity to showcase the pride we all feel about agriculture in Alabama.

Crossman is a graduate of Tuskegee University and has both a Bachelor's & Master's degree in Plant and Soil Sciences.

Geologists Unravel the Mystery of Lake Jackson

The much anticipated Hydrogeologic Assessment of Lake Jackson at Florala study has now been completed by the Geological Survey of Alabama (GSA). The results were presented by the GSA study team at a public meeting hosted by the City of Florala in June. Results of the study provided answers to critical questions about how the lake replenishes itself.

The study team was comprised of Dr. Charles Smith, geologist, and hydrogeologists Marlon Cook, Phillip Henderson, and Bob Baker.

They determined that Lake Jackson is in a delicate balance and only suitable for recreational purposes and should not be used as a water source. This is because the lake's water source is local rainfall. Normal precipitation keeps the lake stable. Groundwater was not a significant source in the lake.

"Lake Jackson is unique in that it is the largest sinkhole in Alabama that holds water, yet very little has been known about where the water comes from, where it goes, or how much water is in the lake," said Commissioner Sparks. "This study has answered these questions."

Lake Jackson at Florala was formed from sinkholes in limestone millions of years ago. 51% of the 408 acre lake is in Alabama and 49% is in Florida. The hydrogeologic study was made possible through a partnership between the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries, the Geological Survey of Alabama, Florala Water & Sewer Board, Covington County Commission, and the Choctawhatchee, Pea & Yellow Rivers Watershed Authority.

Horse Owners Advised to Vaccinate for West Nile Virus

Commissioner Ron Sparks announced that two positive cases of West Nile Virus (WNV) in horses have been found in St. Clair County. These are the first two confirmed cases of WNV in Alabama this year.

WNV is one of the fastest growing health threats to horses. Since its discovery in 1999, this mosquito-borne disease has spread quickly throughout the United States. Infected mosquitoes are the primary source for WNV. The virus causes inflammation or swelling of the brain and spinal cord. General symptoms include central nervous system signs such as: depression, lethargy, loss of appetite, stumbling, and muscular twitching. Although the vast majority of infections have been identified in birds, WNV has been shown to infect horses, cats, bats, chipmunks, skunks, squirrels, and domestic rabbits. These animals are not, however, a source of infection for people and other animals.

Commissioner Sparks and State Veterinarian Dr. Tony Frazier recommend vaccinating your horses every six months against WNV and EEE (another serious mosquito-borne virus). Horse owners are encouraged to contact their local veterinarian to schedule a vaccination for their horses.

For more information about WNV or EEE, please contact State Veterinarian Dr. Tony Frazier at 1-800-642-7761 ext. 7253 or 334/240-7253.
